

GUARDSMEN OF EVERY STATE IN PERSHING ARMY

Great Number of Troops Have Been Moved to France.

MOVED WITHOUT LOSS

Movement Made Despite Numerous Serious Obstacles.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) With American Army in France, Nov. 20 (Delayed).—National Guardsmen from every state in the Union have arrived in France, it is today permitted to be announced. They are among the troops now training, or lately arrived.

All those who sailed from the United States have arrived safely and some already are in training within sound of the battle front.

Not a Man Lost.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Announcement of the arrival in France of the first National Guard units gave the first official notice that an extensive troop movement has been accomplished despite hostile submarines, shortage of troop and supply ships, and other obstacles, and without loss of a man.

Secretary Baker has announced that as fast as men and ships are ready they will be combined and additional forces sent to join General Pershing.

By this means guard divisions first to show themselves proficient for transportation will be the first to go.

It appears possible that the regrouping of national army divisions made necessary by the use of drafted men to fill up the depleted guard divisions, will determine the order of the first national army units to be sent over.

In that regrouping two national army divisions were formed, one representing the whole eastern section of the country and one equally representative of all middle western states. All the war news reports of the national army division at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash.

LOOKED HERE FOR STOLEN CAR

The Dixon police were kept busy last evening searching for a Ford auto, 1917 model, which was stolen from the streets of Sterling, presumably by joy-riders. It was thought the "borrowers" of the car might have taken it to come to Dixon to one of the dances, and accordingly the local officers were asked to look for it. However, they found no trace of it here. The license number was 304681, engine number 2097146.

AMERICAN ENGINEERS DO WONDERFUL WORK IN LAST BIG DRIVE

U. S. Rail Men Are Great Aid to Byng on British Front.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) British Headquarters in France, Nov. 30.—American engineers, first American troops to be engaged in military operations on the British front, took a prominent part in the breaking of the Hindenburg line by Gen. Byng last week.

DIXON BOYS THERE?

(Associated Press Leased Wire) As a matter of fact the American engineers have been laboring on the devastated battlefields of the Somme district nearly four months and two of their men, who were wounded, were the first American casualties announced from Washington.

The Americans have been working in shifts 24 hours a day and no such amount of track has been laid in this section in so short a time before.

Note—There are a number of Dixon boys in the ranks of the American engineers, but it is not known whether they have been participating in the work on the British front.

BRITISH FLEET KEEPS CONSTANT VIGIL FOR ENEMY'S WARSHIPS

Relies Solely on Own Strength for Fight.

HOPE TO MEET FOE

Base of British Grand Fleet (Correspondence).—The head of the British admiralty, speaking the other day in the house of commons, flung out a challenge to the German navy. He said, "I disclose no secret, or if it is a secret I disclose a fact which when I say that the British grand fleet in its northern base lies behind no shore defenses, but relies on its own strength alone."

There are people in the United States who do not appreciate the activities of the British navy in its home waters, who think that it lies in idleness, like the German high seas fleet, behind impenetrable land-locked bases. For the purpose of removing this impression, the Associated Press representative was asked to visit the grand fleet, live on board the first line battleships, and observe just what sort of a day's work it puts in day after day and week after week.

Ceaseless Activity.

Ceaseless activity is the motto of the grand fleet. Neither men nor ships are permitted to gather rust or barnacles. From its base at the northern tip of the British isles, it sweeps day and night the 140,000 square miles of the North sea, on ceaseless vigil, in unflagging hope that one day its watching will be rewarded by a meeting with the enemy under circumstances wherein he cannot avoid battle. Moreover, this sweeping of the North sea is no mere aimless patrol. In the most casual moves of ships and men there is always a directing mind and a directing plan. The North sea is as well swept in relation to its size as the drawing room of a well ordered house. The enemy's coastline is still

The Dixon hospital was the recipient of the collection taken at the union Thanksgiving service held Thursday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church. The offering amounted to $17.67.

Lost in One's Own Room.

Most of us have been lost at some time or other in our own bedroom. There is no more panicky feeling than to get up half awake and find yourself stumbling over chairs and tables, than to realize that you are lost and start off again only to meet new chairs and angles. Nervous or sick persons are subject to hysteria in such a case. The psychologist has found that a moment's calm consideration will set the lost one straight, but says that it is best in all such cases to call out and secure aid rather than to get another bump.

STERLING WINS THANKSGIVING DAY GAME HERE

Hard Fought Battle Ends Successfully for Sterling Players.

FINAL SCORE 12 TO 0

Dixon Second Team Wins From Sterling Light Weights.

Before a great crowd of Dixon and Sterling people, the Thanksgiving football game between the high school teams of the two cities was played at the Country Club grounds in Dixon yesterday. Sterling won from Dixon, 12 to 0.

Both teams played a splendid game. Duhm, of the Sterling eleven, was the star player of the game, and he was chiefly responsible for Sterling's victory.

The lineup was the same as published in Wednesday's Evening Telegraph. The officials were: Referee, Clark of Rock Island; umpire, Mounts of La Salle; head linesman, Wold of Sycamore.

Over $500 was taken in at the gate, and the crowd was the largest in attendance at a football game here in a long time. The students from both cities had their cheer leaders and were very enthusiastic in their support of their respective teams.

Captain Whitcombe, and Schuler, Schrock, Rynearson and Gardner of the Dixon team played their last high school football game yesterday, as they finish high school this year. The game by quarters was as follows:

The Real Gentleman.

Do not undervalue the character of the real gentleman, which is the most respectable amongst men. It consists not of plate and equipage and rich living, any more than in the disease which that mode of life engenders; but in truth, courtesy, bravery, generosity and learning, which, last, though not essential to it, yet does very much to adorn and illustrate the character of the true gentleman—John Randolph.

CLAIM POLO BANKER STRONG OPPONENT IN FIGHT ON BANK LAWS

Senator Austin of Oak Park Tells of Fight on Bank Bill.

AFFECTED HIS BANK

Chicago Tribune. The collapse of Bryant H. Barber, private bank at Polo, Ill., following the suicide of its owner brings to public attention the private banking bill which was adopted at the last Illinois general assembly and which will become a law in this state if it is ratified by the people at the polls next November.

It is reported by legislators that Bryant H. Barber, whose tragic death by leaping from a rock river bridge brought to light the insolvency of his bank, was one of the private bankers who had been active for a number of years in the lobby at Springfield against the measure, who was able time after time to encompass its defeat and delay the reform.

No Bar to Speculation.

Senator H. V. Austin of Oak Park, who introduced the bill directed attention to the Barber misfortune as evidence of the necessity of such a law. "Everybody in this community," says Mr. Austin, "considers Mr. Barber rich beyond any doubt (the deposits in his bank were approximately $800,000). Now it appears that Barber had been speculating in stocks, and under present conditions and until the new law is adopted by the people there is nothing to prevent a private banker from doing so."

"One other case I want to call to your attention which is parallel and that is the opposition put up in the senate by friends of Graham & Sons, the west side private bankers. This opposition came very near mutilating the bill in the senate to such an extent that it would probably have failed of passage."

Defeated by Hard Work. "They introduced an amendment to make the law apply only to bankers who had been in business less than twenty years. This of course would have let the Graham firm out of the terms of the law, and it would also have let out a good many over the state. By the hardest kind of work we managed to defeat this amendment; in fact we had to break a quorum of the senate one day to do it, and the senate was adjourned hastily for lack of a quorum by friends of the bill."

"It is the best evidence that such a law should be passed when we find that men who are most active in opposing such a law are the very ones against whom such protection is necessary."

"Assuming the foregoing facts and having in mind your personal examination of the defendant, in your opinion was the defendant mentally sound at the time of the shooting?"

Mrs. De Saulles seemed wilted by the long court proceedings.

UNION SERVICE WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

St. Paul's Church Crowded for the Annual Meeting.

REV. MOORE SPEAKER

Dixon people did not forget the call to prayer and thanksgiving as issued by the President, for St. Paul's beautiful auditorium was completely filled with interested worshippers at the union Thanksgiving service. Seven ministers of the city had seats upon the platform and took some part in the service. A chorus choir of thirty voices rendered several praiseful anthems and led the congregational singing.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. W. W. Moore, pastor of the Christian church, from the text Ex. 20:12 "The land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." It was a very impressive and timely theme, presented in its historic, religious and patriotic phases. The duty of properly recognizing the gift and carefully guarding it was emphasized.

NORWAY SUFFERED MUCH AS DID U. S.

MANY SPIES HAVE INFESTED THAT COUNTRY

Christiania (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Norway during the last half of this year has had the same experience of German methods as the United States went through before it entered the war, spies working everywhere under the direction of espionage centers in the neighboring countries, Sweden and Denmark.

Thanks to the work of the police, especially in Christiania, many of them have been caught, some sent to jail and others expelled from the country. Several mysterious fires in great industrial plants and storage houses have aroused a country-wide suspicion against every German, Swede and Finn. During the last half of the year there have been twenty-one such fires here, two or three occurring together. The great store of provisions in Trondjem belonging to the British importing agency was burned with a loss of several millions of dollars. It proved to be of incendiary origin. Two canning plants with great exports from Great Britain were burned, and a condensed milk plant with exclusive export trade to England was destroyed with more than a million cans ready for shipment.

Three planing mills in different parts of the country were burned. Their output was being used for boxes and crates for export. The other day another planing mill in the vicinity of the government's fire arm manufactory at Kongsberg was burned during the night, and while attention was directed toward this fire a burglar was detected in the fire arm factory. The press states that German plotters in this case tried to blow up the government factory.

Foreigners have sought and in some cases obtained employment at the government munition plant, and later have been discovered to be German citizens, some of them even officers in the German army.

The press is warning the people to look for a criminal spy in every German in the country.

In order to keep such undesirable guests out of the country and prevent the increasing number of foreigners of a poor quality from drifting into Norway, a short bill was passed by parliament forbidding foreigners who have arrived since August, 1914, to stay here more than two weeks without a special license.

Still Registering Women
The Dixon Woman's Council of Defense, with rooms in the Countryman building, second floor, will continue to register the woman power of Dixon all this week, including Saturday. Last Saturday there were three or four hundred added to the list of registrants and many also during the early days of the week. Women will be registered in the evening if they will telephone previously to 34 and make an appointment. Some women in Dixon have refused to register and it is believed that this is through misunderstanding; it is repeated, that the registration is simply a national census of the women of the nation and a statement of ability to serve or not to serve as the case may be. Those who cannot serve the government in any of the many ways are exempted just as are the men. Refusal to register is noted and sent to government headquarters, where it may be taken as a proof of disloyalty.

Going Over the Top.
The scene—a dimly lighted hallway in the Countryman building late last evening; the actors, ten women waiting to register, and a member of the Woman's Committee, National Council of Defense, anxious to register them; the plot—the door of the Council of Defense headquarters is locked, the key is at the bookstore across the way, the bookstore is closed for the night. The action thickens as the committee member pickers her brows, points to the transom and the faces of the women waiting to register clear as they catch the hint, give the waiting committee woman a boost, she goes "over the top." The door is unlocked, the women registered and everyone is satisfied with the happy ending.

I do not believe the prices usually charged by other optical concerns are too high, but I do believe as a rule not enough attention is paid to those who must of necessity purchase low-priced glasses.

DOUBLE BARRELED PATRIOTISM.

The American soldier does not believe in doing things by halves. He uses the full unit in giving expression to his practical patriotism. He not only stands willing to support the flag in its glorious onward march to world liberty and freedom, laying down his life if necessary, but he stands willing to aid the government by lending liberally of his money. What he did in connection with the second Liberty Loan should serve as an inspiration to the entire nation.

Subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan from the military establishment of the United States reached the gigantic total of $89,803,300. The American army had a per capita subscription of $76.86, representing an average subscription of $113.25 and nearly 70 per cent of the army subscribed.

The American expeditionary forces in France subscribed $5,661,850. Troops in Hawaii rolled up $1,269,150; those in Panama $1,113,600, and those in the Philippines and China $358,550.

The thirty-one cantonment camps in the nation subscribed for $43,080,500 of the war bonds. The sixteen National Army camps subscribed for $23,740,900, the fifteen National Guard camps taking $19,339,600 of the securities. Twenty-five of the thirty-one cantonment camps went over the $1,000,000 mark and eleven of them subscribed individually for more than $1,500,000. The National Army camps had a per capita subscription of $58.36. Camp Meade, at Admiral Maryland, led the National Army with a per capita subscription of $89.36. Camp Cody, at Deming, New Mexico, led the National Guard with a per capita subscription of $96.56.

The North Pacific Coast Artillery district, with headquarters at Seattle, Washington, reported a total subscription of $454,650 from 4,063 subscribers of a total strength of 4,718 men.

In the latter part of the bond campaign, officers and enlisted men were detailed wherever practicable, to co-operate with local Liberty Loan organizations. A typical sample of the results was shown in the telegraphic report from Camp Lee, the National Army cantonment at Petersburg, Virginia, to the effect that through the efforts of officers and enlisted men of that camp, bond subscriptions amounting to $14,532,450 were obtained from persons residing outside of Camp Lee.

This amazing showing by the men in arms should bring home with compelling force a lesson in practical patriotism to all persons who are not called to the army. The next Liberty Loan will determine the extent to which this lesson carries.

CELEBRATE IN LONDON

American Forces in Europe Observe Thanksgiving Day.

U. S. Soldiers Stationed in France Enjoy Dinner—Premier Sends Greeting.

London, Nov. 30.—Thanksgiving was observed in London by the flying of American flags, an informal dinner at the American Officers' club and a picturesque united service on behalf of the United States and Great Britain in the historic Church of St. Ethelburga. It was this church in which Henry Hudson was a parishioner and made communion before starting on his first voyage of discovery in the new world more than 300 years ago.

Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner were represented officially at the service, which was attended by several distinguished Englishmen and a number of American residents of London. The quaint old church, which is one of the landmarks of the city, was decorated with American and British flags. The service included prayers for King George, President Wilson, Great Britain and the United States and the singing of "Hail Columbia," "The Star-Spangled Banner," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "God Save the King" and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Rev. W. F. Cobb, the rector, in his sermon spoke of President Wilson as a worthy successor to Washington and Lincoln, and as in some respects even stronger than they. No man, he said, ever so well expressed that great cause of freedom and justice for which

If there's any bad breeding in a fellow it's sure to pop out at the dinner table. It's no trouble to get it out front these days whether you've got any ambition or not.

America and Great Britain are striving, united in a bond such as now exists between the two countries; a bond of the heart, which never can be undone.

Paris, Nov. 30.—American soldiers stationed in Paris and the suburbs, as well as those at various training camps and bases, sat down at noon yesterday to an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. Specially detailed officers for the last two weeks had been buying all available turkeys in the nearby countryside. These averaged 12 pounds in weight.

The dinner menu for the men stationed in Paris included soup, turkey, potatoes, turnips, peas, white bread, butter, apple and peach pie, apples, raisins, nuts, figs, dates and coffee. Individual turkey portions ranged from a pound and a quarter to a pound and a half.

A small group of American soldiers quartered at a French barracks and who have been receiving French rations also enjoyed a special dinner. While the men here did not enjoy a holiday, revelry was omitted and other rules relaxed for the day.

Premier Clemenceau of France sent this Thanksgiving day greeting to the American people:

"Even before collaborating in the supreme efforts which will drive the enemy from Belgium and France, the Americans came to our assistance by admirable concentration of all their energies.

"On this Thanksgiving day we wish to tell them that our politics are more resolute than ever; that our ranks are tightening and that we shall know how to win a just peace."

Horse a Vain Thing for Safety.

A sportsman came to grief at the first fence. Pluckily remounting, he met the same fate at the second attempt. Asked the cause of his disasters, he said: "It was like this: Ven ve komts to ze first fence, I did zink my horse vud jump; but he did not jump, so I vent over his head. Ven ve komts to ze second fence, I did zink he vud not jump, and he jump; so I vent over his tail."

BRITISH SHELL TOWN

London, Nov. 30.—The British troops on the Cambrai front made a further advance near Bourlon wood, according to the official report sent by General Haig from the front.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—British artillery was shelling the town of Cambrai, the objective of the latest British offensive on the Somme front in France, the German general staff announced.

The statement follows:

"Army group of Prince Rupprecht: East of Merckem Bavarian storming troops brought back from the Belgian lines one officer, forty-six men and two machine guns.

"There was heavy artillery firing throughout the day near Poelcapelle and between Beclere and Gheluvelt. East of Arras the artillery activity increased.

"There was a lull in the fighting southwest of Cambrai. Between Moeuvres and Bourlon, and in the neighborhood of Fontaine Notre Dame and Crevecoeur the fighting increased at times. Cambrai was shelled by the British. Minor forefield engagements resulted in the capture of prisoners and machine guns.

"Army group of the German crown prince: On both banks of the Meuse the artillery firing revived in the afternoon. We carried out successful reconnaissances. A French attack near Dieppe was repulsed."

London, Nov. 30.—No change in the British positions on the Cambrai front is reported in the official communication. The Belgians repulsed a German attack. The statement follows:

"A hostile attack delivered against Belgian positions in the neighborhood of Aschloep was beaten off after sharp fighting. South of the Scarpe river we captured a few prisoners during the night in patrol encounters. On the remainder of the front there is nothing of special interest to report."

Paris, Nov. 30.—"Artillery actions occurred north of the Aisne and in the region of Sapienou," says the official report. "In the Champagne north of Camillet the enemy, after a violent bombardment, undertook a raid in great strength. Our troops repulsed him, inflicting heavy losses. In the Argonne west of the Aire we raided the German lines and brought back ten prisoners.

"Two enemy raids, one on the left bank of the Meuse, in the region of Bethincourt, the other on the right bank northwest of Vaux les Damloup, were completely repulsed. There was active artillery fighting in upper Alsace."

Onycha.

The word onycha occurs only in Exodus 30:34, as one of the ingredients of the sacred perfume. Onycha is the shell of a mussel found in some lakes in India, which, when burned, emits a musty odor.

Four French Ships Sunk.

Paris, Nov. 30.—Three French steamships of more than 1,000 tons and one of less than that tonnage were sunk by submarines or mines during the week ending November 25. One fishing vessel was lost. Three steamers were attacked unsuccessfully.

BRITISH FLEET ACTIVE

The British navy's frontier.

The harbor which has been the home of the grand fleet for three years is probably the finest of its kind in the world. The whole area comprised in this British northern base is about equal to the hundred-odd square miles which the Germans evacuated in France last spring. The battleship squadrons, for example, within their own particular section of this great base, have room for every kind of practice maneuvers, including target practice.

On a sunny afternoon the correspondent saw eight battleships at turret or target practice, a detachment of cruisers in maneuvers, a seaplane-balloon ship at work under conditions simulating those of actual warfare, and off around the edges, various operations by innumerable small craft and auxiliaries.

Night target practice, also, is conducted within the harbor, is always an interesting sight. The battleships steam down the nine-mile course. Suddenly a searchlight picks up a target. Instantly every turret is trained, every gun directed. Then a button is pressed somewhere, and the guns speak as with one voice in a gigantic broadside that awakens the echoes from the hills.

There is an infinite variety to the turret practice on a big battleship. The officer in charge of the turret speaks: "An enemy shell has come in through the turret. Killing men numbers 1, 3, 4 and 6. Right gun disabled. Connection with rest of ship lost. Carry on!" The "dead men" file off to one side and watch their comrades work as they would in actual battle. There is the zest of a game to it.

The officer speaks again: "Shell has hit turret, killing all men except numbers 1 and 3. Number 3 is seriously wounded. Ammunition hoisting machinery disabled. Fire started in pile of waste behind gun. Carry on!" The single unwounded man left in the turret must now endeavor to keep the guns in action single handed, besides dealing with a fire and a seriously wounded man. The "dead men" stand along the edge of the turret and watch their comrades' efforts to "carry on" with interest and amusement.

It is play, but play with a deadly efficiency behind it, for it is intended that in actual battle, there shall not be a single possibility with which these men will not be ready to deal.

ARREST OF LUXBURG STOPPED BIG WIRELESS

SOUVENIR HUNTERS ON WEST FRONT MAKE A DISCOVERY.

Behind British Lines in France—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—In every battalion at the front there are a number of confirmed souvenir hunters, and sometimes their influence is so potent that an epidemic craze for collecting spreads through all ranks, and the main topic of conversation is souvenirs in all their varieties. In every walk of trench life one meets the man with strong acquisitive habits; in civilian life he might develop his bent into either finance, art, stamp collecting or possibly burglary. In the trenches the fully developed passion for collecting souvenirs is often a trial for the collector, for a collection of any kind sooner or later demands a place to put it in, and there is no place in knapsack and dugout life for a store of gathered treasures. The available war souvenirs are seldom of much value, but there is a considerable variety of things to choose from in most battle areas. In the early days of the war, the German helmets were valued souvenirs, for the old style German helmet was substantial and picturesque, brilliant with heavy metal garniture.

There were also unusual variations, like the quaint Bavarian shakos, while one or two cavalry regiments provided a rare variety of headgear which has not been seen on the western front since the first year of war. The German helmet of today has depreciated even more than the German mark, it is no longer even leather, but a kind of light paper-felt. The metal spike has given place to one of wood or composition. The solid brass regimental badge is now a thin tinzel plaque. The true collector cares very little for the modern helmet and has no interest at all in the little round conical cap which so many German prisoners wear. If the German only knew it, a sure passport to warm and instant favor on surrender is a decent helmet. It attracts immediate attention and the fortunate owner is given cigarettes and other marks of favor by his delighted captor, in stead of being merely herded to the rear without ceremony.

The supply of helmets is seldom adequate to the demand; indeed the market is only glutted on occasions of a big push or a large scale raid. Among lesser trophies, the ambitious collector finds great scope for his activities in the shells sent over by the hostile artillery. Fuses and nose caps in wonderful variations are to be obtained with little pains, and the collection of these is encouraged by the general staff, because the setting of the fuse may give the correct range of a suspected battery, and there is other information of useful character to be gained from the study of these trophies.

The French soldiers have specialized in aluminum rings and jewelry made from the nose caps of hostile shells, and quite an ambitious industry has been developed in this way. The British prefer to work in brass, usually the brass of empty cartridges and shell cases. With infinite patience and few tools they produce what the Frenchman calls "peculiar objects of the mantelpiece." Little model coal scuttles with legs made of bullets, a tiny coal shovel worked up from a German rifle cartridge; vases of curious surface mottling made by indenting the brass of a field gun case; ambitious designs of allied flags and well known heroes, made from ration cases or brass—these are only a few of the things which the collector is offered by his own comrades. There is no end to the ingenuity and variety of the work of the soldier craftsman, but his most familiar work is in inkpots, candlesticks and decorative paper weights made from hand grenades or the interior of shrapnel shells.

GERMAN HELMETS MADE OF PAPER?

INSTRUMENTS WERE BEING INSTALLED AT TIME OF ARREST.

Buenos Aires.—The arrest of Count Luxburg, formerly German minister to the Argentine republic, prevented the operation of a gigantic wireless station which had been erected by a German company on a bluff near Buenos Aires. When Luxburg received his passports the company was installing an apparatus which was expected to put this city into direct radiographic communication with the German station at Nauern, Germany.

The next day the minister of marine closed the wireless station and ordered an officer of the navy to superintend the dismantling of the apparatus.

Although the official excuse given for the closing of the station was that its experiments had not been successful, officers of the ministry of marine have stated that the real reason was to prevent secret communication with Germany during the crisis which followed the expulsion of Luxburg.

London.—"The doctor has made this world struggle probably one of the least deadly fought in proportion to the numbers engaged," said Dr. Woods Hutchison, an American, in an address at the Royal Society of Medicine.

"The doctor's control over wound infection is so masterly," he added, "that of the wounded who survive six hours, 90 per cent recover; of those who reach the field hospitals, 95 per cent recover, and of those who arrive at the base hospitals, 95 per cent get well."

"The twin angels, anaesthetics and antiseptics, have not only enormously diminished pain and agony, but have made amputations rarer and grave cripples fewer than ever before in war history. Barely 5 per cent of the wounded are crippled or permanently disabled.

Amsterdam, Netherlands.—A pipe line 750 miles long is about to be laid, according to a German automobile journal, between Ploesti, Rumania, and Oderberg, on the Austro-German frontier. This pipe line will convey oil direct from the Rumanian wells throughout the entire width of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy to the very door of the industrial districts of German Silesia. At present, railroad freights run up the price of 900 marks for ten tons at the well mouth to 3,000 marks at the German frontier. By the projected pipe line the cost of transportation is to be reduced to only 50 marks for the same quality. The estimated outlay for constructing the line is fifteen million marks.

GERMANS FORCED TO MOVE

U. S. Authorities Oust Enemy Aliens From Barred Zones.

New York, Nov. 26.—The 100-yard alien enemy barred zone order along New York water fronts went into effect here. Several thousand German subjects will be forced out of employment at the different packing houses and shipping docks along the East river. United States Marshal Thomas P. McCarthy declares that he will see that the law is strictly enforced. Marshal McCarthy in an order extended the territory included in the barred zone to include all docks and piers used by commercial ships on both sides of the Hudson as far as Albany.

Parkway Baths at Brighton Beach Are Destroyed.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Parkway baths at Brighton Beach were destroyed by fire, and more than a score of adjoining buildings were burned or badly damaged. The loss was estimated at $300,000. The buildings damaged or destroyed covered four acres and included 20 bungalows, two restaurants, a hotel and two stores.

Buys "Money-Making Machine."

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The intermittent glow of a small light in an oblong contrivance in a darkened room of the Calvert hotel, East Eighteenth street and Wabash avenue, caused Stephen Masoras of Indiana Harbor to lose $1,000 when he bought the outfit from four confidence men as a "money-making machine." Masoras reported the matter to the police, who have been arrested.

Origin of Pottery.

Pottery probably first came into service as a protection to the vessels made of gourds, shells, basket work of reeds, young branches and other materials, and finally became the vessel itself because of its serviceable qualities. Instead of the frailer, earlier type.

"I don't think she'll be overjoyed to see me," Billy Louise stood still beside the gooseberry bush, and she had forgotten to put away her gun. "I drove up those cattle you had down below. You're awfully careless, Charlie! I should think Peter or Marthy would have told you better. When a man steals cattle by working over the brands, it's very bad form to keep them right on his ranch in plain sight. It isn't done by the best people, you know." Her voice stung with the contempt she managed to put into it. And though she smiled, it was such a smile as one seldom saw upon the face of Billy Louise.

"What's all this? Worked brands? Why, Miss Louise, I—I wouldn't know how to—"

"I know. You did an awful punk job. A person could tell in the dark it was the work of a greenhorn. Why didn't you let Peter do it, or Marthy? You could have done a better job than that, couldn't you, Marthy?"

Poor old Marthy, with her rheumatic knees and a gray hardness in her leathery face, had come down the path and stood squarely before Billy Louise, her hands knocking her flabby hips, her hair blowing in gray, struggling wisps about her bullet head.

"Better than what? Come in, Billy Louise. I'm right glad to see ye back and lookin' so well, even if yuh do 'pear to be in one of your tantrums. How's yer maw?"

Billy Louise gasped and went white. "Mommie's dead," she said. "She died the ninth." She drew another gasping breath, pulled herself together, and went on before the others could begin the set speeches of sympathy which the announcement seemed to demand. "Never mind about that, now. I'm talking about those Seabeck cattle you folks stole. I was telling Charlie how horribly careless he is, Marthy. Did you know he let them drift down the river? And a blind man could tell a mile off the brands had been worked!" Billy Louise's tone was positively venomous in its contempt. "Why didn't you make Charlie practice on a cowhide for a while first?" she asked Marthy cuttingly.

Marthy ignored the sarcasm. Perhaps it did not penetrate her stolid mind at all. "Charlie never worked any brands, Billy Louise," she stated with her glum directness.

"Oh, I beg his pardon, I'm sure! Did you?"

"No, I never done such a thing, neither. I don't know what you're talkin' about."

"Well, who did, then?" Billy Louise faced the old woman pitilessly.

"I do." Billy Louise lifted her hand and made a futile effort to tuck in a few of the longest wisps of hair.

"Well, of all the—!" The stern gray eyes of Billy Louise flew wide open at the effrontery of the words. If they expected her to believe that!

"That's it, Miss Louise. That's the point we'd like to settle, ourselves. I know it sounds outrageous, but it's a fact. Peter and I found those cattle up in the hills, with our brand worked over the V. On my word of honor, not one of us knows who did it."

"But you've got them down here—"

"Well—!" Charlie threw out a hand helplessly. His eyes met hers with appealing frankness. "We couldn't rub out the brands; what else could we do?"

I figured that somebody else would see them if we left them out in the hills, and it might be rather hard to convince a man; you see, so help me, even convince you! But, so help me, not one of us branded those cattle, Miss Louise. I believe that whoever has been rustling stock around here deliberately tried to fix evidence against us. I'm a stranger in the country, and I don't know the game very well; I'm an easy mark."

"Yes, you're that, all right enough!" Billy Louise spoke with blunt disfavor, but her contemptuous certainty of his guilt was plainly wavering. "To go and bring stolen cattle right down here—"

"It seemed to me they'd be safer here than anywhere else," Charlie observed naively. "Nobody ever comes down here, unknown to us. I had it sized up that the fellow who worked those brands would never dream we'd bring the stock right into the Cove. Why, Miss Louise, even I would know better than to put our brand on top of Seabeck's and expect it to pass inspection. If I wanted to steal cattle, I wouldn't go at it that way!"

Billy Louise glanced uncertainly at him and then at Marthy, facing her grimly. She did not know what to think, and she showed it.

"How do you mean—the real rustlers?" she began hesitatingly; and hesitation was not by any means a mental habit with Billy Louise.

"I mean just what I said," Charlie's manner was becoming more natural, more confident. "I've been riding through the hills a good deal, and I've seen a few things. And I've an idea the fellow got a little uneasy." He saw her wince a little at the word "fellow," and he went on, with an impulsive burst of confidence: "Miss Louise, have you ever, in your riding around up above Jones canyon, in all those deep little gulches, have you ever seen anything of a—corgal, up there?"

Billy Louise held herself rigidly from starting at this. She bit her lips so that it hurt. "Whereabouts is it?" she asked, without looking at him. And then: "I thought you would go to any length before you would accuse anybody."

"I would. But when they deliberately try to hand me the blame—and I'm not accusing anybody—anybody in particular, am I? The corgal is at the head of a steep little canyon or gulch, back in the hills where all these bigger canyons head. Some time when you're riding up that way, you keep an eye out for it. That," he added grimly, "is where Peter and I ran across those cattle; right near that corgal."

The heart of Billy Louise went heavy in her chest. Was it possible? Doubts are harder to kill than cats or snakes. You think they're done for, and here they come again, crowding close so that one can see nothing else.

"Have you any idea at all, who— it is?" She forced the words out of her dry throat. She lifted her head defiantly and looked at him full, trying to read the truth from his eyes and his mouth.

Charlie Fox met her look, and in his eyes she read pity—yes, pity for her. "If I have," he said, with an air of gently deliberate evasion, "I'll wait till I am dead before I name the man. I'm not at all sure I'd do it even then, Miss Louise; not unless I was forced to do it in self-defense. That's one reason why I brought the cattle down here. I didn't want to be placed in a position where I should be compelled to fight back."

Baffled and angry and hurt to the very soul of her, Billy Louise opened the gate and went out. "If you know anything to tell, for heaven's sake don't hold back on my account! It's nothing to me, one way or the other. I'm no rustler, and no friend of rustlers, if that's what you're hinting at." She left them with a proud lift to her chin and a very straight back, went to Blue, and mounted him mechanically. Billy Louise was "seeing red" just then. She rode back past the gate, the three were still standing there close together, talking.

Billy Louise had ridden but a short distance when, with a sudden impulse born of her stern instincts of justice, she jerked Blue around and galloped back. Charlie had disappeared, and Peter Howling Dog was walking suddenly toward the corralled cattle. Marthy was going slowly up the path to the cabin, looking old and bent and broken-spirited because of her bowed shoulders and stiff, rheumatic gait, but harsh and unyielding as to her face. Billy Louise stopped by the fence and called to her. Marthy turned, stared at her sourly, and stood where she was.

"Wall, what d'yuh want now?" she asked uncompromisingly.

Billy Louise fought back an answering antagonism. She must be just; she could not blame Marthy for feeling hard toward her. She had insulted them horribly and killed Marthy's dog.

"I want to tell you I'm sorry I was so mean, Marthy," she said bravely. "I haven't any excuse to make for it; only you must see yourself what a shock it would be to a person to find those cattle down here. But I know you're honest, and so is Charlie. And I know you'll do what's right. I'm sorry I shot your dog, Marthy."

Apologies did not come easily to Billy Louise. She wheeled then and rode away at a furious gallop, before Marthy could do more than open her grim lips for reply.

The inside of a Firestone Fabric Tire and explain new features that greatly increase mileage

That motorists find extra values in Firestone Tires is proved by the fact that our sales increased 72 per cent this year up to Sept. 1st. Our total business this year will exceed $60,000,000.

FIRESTONE advances, never stands still. Every year Firestone means still More Miles per Dollar.

New features are incorporated in the present output. So important that every dealer wants to show them to you. See the cross section and note:

The Tough, Thick Tread: Many more miles of resistance against the friction of the road.

More Cushion Stock: More pure rubber between fabric and tread to save the body of the tire from shocks and bruises and to increase resiliency.

More Rubber Between Layers: Separating the plies of fabric by an elastic wall which allows free play without friction.

Reinforcement in Bead and Side Wall: Greatly increases the strength at the bead, at the junction of tire and rim, and raises the point of bending to the widest part of the tire. This one feature alone adds miles and miles to the service of the tire.

Wherever Firestones are for sale you can see this section of tire and gain an inside knowledge that will teach you to buy Most Miles per Dollar.

Garden Walls Once a Protection.

In the early days of England, when civil wars were constantly waging, garden walls came into being as a grim necessity. Of considerable height, and of great thickness, they were designed first to afford protection, but as time went on, like the ugly duckling in the fairy tale, they became beautiful. These delightful old walls have withstood the ravages of time, mellowing with maturing years, and coloring beautifully with the siege of summer's heat and the blast of winter's breath.

NOTICE

The Borden's Condensed Milk company has placed patrols on its premises. Their men are deputized armed guards and are instructed to permit no persons on the premises who cannot show permits from the office. Existing wartime conditions make this precaution necessary and this notice is to inform the public for its own safety. The instructions given their men are very drastic and any person going upon our premises does so at his own risk. All right thinking people will understand the necessity for this action.

Shoots Money Into Bank.

For the thrifty soul with sportsman-like tendencies a novel savings bank has recently been invented. By a clever arrangement of the bank and a small gun on a metal stand you are able to shoot your money into safe keeping. The bank is concealed by a targetlike arrangement with a slot in the bull's eye. The nickel, dime or quarter is placed in the gun; the trigger is pulled and the coin flies into the bank.

KAISER WANTS TO MAKE PEACE

London, Nov. 30.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that the Swedish legation at Petrograd has agreed, at Troitzky's request, to act as mediator between Russia and Germany, and has already sent to the Berlin foreign office a note proffering a truce and peace negotiations.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—Count George F. von Hertling, the new imperial German chancellor, told the reichstag that he was ready to enter into peace negotiations as soon as the Russian government would send representatives having full powers to Berlin.

"I hope and wish," he said, "that these efforts will soon take definite shape and bring us peace."

Respecting Poland, Lithuania and Courland (Russian domains occupied by Germany) Count von Hertling said:

"We respect the right of self-determination of their peoples. We expect they will give themselves a constitutional form of government corresponding to their conditions."

Battle on in Petrograd.
Washington, Nov. 30.—Out of the maze of Russian complications there emerged word of renewed trouble at Petrograd, with a hint of another revolution, to arrest, momentarily at least, the interest of the Washington government.

What proportions the movement assumed was a matter of conjecture; the early reports telling of firing and wounding of several persons and epidemic of political turmoil.

From American and from British sources warnings have gone out for the information of the party in power at Petrograd of the serious consequences of its movement for separate peace.

All Fighting Stops.
Petrograd, Nov. 30.—The bolshevik government received formal notification from Ensign Krylenko, its commander in chief, that a complete cessation of all hostilities on all fronts was in sight, through acquiescence of all German front commanders to the negotiation of an armistice.

Preliminary unofficial reports had indicated that agreement for a meeting to discuss an armistice had been obtained on the fifth army front. The official report from Krylenko, however, covers all fronts.
